

Mr. Stanton's Dispatches.
WAR DEPARTMENT,
WASHINGTON, Sept. 2, 8 P. M. }
Major General Dix, New York:

This department has received intelligence this evening, that Gen. Sherman's advance entered Atlanta about noon to-day.

The particulars have not yet been received, but telegraphic communication during the night with Atlanta direct is expected.

It is ascertained, with reasonable certainty, that the naval and other credits required by the act of Congress will amount to about 200,000, including New York, which has not yet been reported to the department; so that the President's call of July 18 is practically reduced to three hundred thousand men to meet and take the place of—

1st. The new enlistments in the navy.
2d. The casualties of battle, sickness, prisoners, and desertion; and
3d. The hundred-day troops, and all others going out by expiration of service this fall.

One hundred thousand new troops, promptly furnished, is all that Gen. Grant asks for the capture of Richmond, and to give a finishing blow to the rebel armies yet in the field.

The residue of the call would be adequate for garrisons in forts and cities, and to guard all the lines of communication and supplies, free the country from guerrillas, give security to trade, protect commerce and travel, and establish peace, order, and tranquillity in every State.

EDWIN M. STANTON,
Secretary of War.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2, 10.45 P. M.
Major General Dix, New York:

The following telegram from Major General Slocum, dated this day in Atlanta, and just received, confirms the capture of that city:

"General Sherman has taken Atlanta. The 20th corps occupies the city. The main army is on the main road near Eastpoint. A battle was fought near that point, in which General Sherman was successful. Particulars not known."
H. W. SLOCUM,
"Major General."

An unofficial report states that in the battle fought near Eastpoint, by Major General Sherman with Hood, the rebel army was cut in two, with very heavy loss to the enemy, and that General Hardee was killed. Our loss not known.

Secretary of War.
